SPECIAL BOTTLES

HIGH PRESSURE

Sparkling water requires a glass container that's high-quality, and durable. That's why we develop bottles that are specifically designed to withstand the overpressure created during the water bubbling process, while considering the unique specifications of your sparkling water maker. Our bottles are made from premium-grade glass and are able to hold out against the pressure, without the risk of bursting.

Our expertise in this field is unparalleled, and we've already partnered with numerous customers who are leaders in the sparkling water maker industry. Our bottles not only tolerate the pressure during the bubbling process, they are also able to release the excess pressure effectively. This ensures the bottle remains stable and secure, even after the bubbling process is complete.

However, the process doesn't stop here. Our design team is capable of creating a bottle design based on your individual expectations to perfectly suit the technical specifications, as well as the look and feel of your sparkling water maker.
